DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 3-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dogoshi et al JP 06-253409.

As per claim 3, Dogoshi et al (herein after Dogoshi) teach a device for supplying electricity to a motor vehicle comprising a chargeable battery (51); a voltage transformer control device (15, 81, 53) having a first end connected to said chargeable battery; a capacitor (57) for charging said battery connected to a second end of said voltage transformer control device wherein the maximum voltage of said capacitor has a value which is greater than a maximum voltage of said battery and wherein said transformer control device discharges said capacitor until the voltage of said capacitor is substantially equal to said maximum voltage of said battery (abstract).

As per claim 4, Dogoshi teaches the capacitor being discharged until the voltage of said capacitor is equal to the value of the actual voltage of the battery (abstract).

As per claim 5, Dogoshi teaches a method for supplying electricity to a motor vehicle comprised the steps of providing a rechargeable battery (51) having a nominal voltage ([0013] translation); providing an energy accumulator (57) having a maximum voltage which is substantially greater than said nominal voltage; discharging said energy accumulator until the voltage of said accumulator is substantially equal to said nominal battery voltage (abstract).

As per claim 6, Dogoshi teaches a battery recharging system for improving the service life of a rechargeable battery, said system comprising energy accumulator means (57) having a first nominal voltage greater than a maximum voltage of said battery (51); means (15, 81, 53) connected between said accumulator and said battery for discharging said energy accumulator by a voltage decreasing transformation until said first nominal voltage has been reduced to a voltage substantially equal to the maximum battery voltage (abstract).

3. Art of general nature relating to capacitor/battery charging/discharging has been cited for applicant's review.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 3-6 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. However, the Examiner wants to further clarify his rejection. Dogoshi translation discloses that the battery is composed in such a way as to obtain a desired maximum voltage [0113]. Dogoshi further discloses that in a regenerative mode, the capacitor voltage could exceed the battery voltage [0021]. This is construed as the capacitor having a maximum voltage higher than the battery voltage.
